

Art Learning Story

We did masks because of Book Fortnight. The stories were about Maori Myths and legends and it was also Maori language week. B8 made masks of a Maori woman. She has a moko as well.

First I drew the face and then painted the skin on. We used the method called 'cardbord edging' to do the lines. We put two feathers on the hair.

I made a flower that was orange and put strings on the flower. I then painted a moko. Lastly I put glitter on the face.

By AANAN